

Rosh Hashanah (Jewish New Year)

- It is celebrated in September
- Jewish people remember the creation of the world
- Jewish people reflect on the past year and ask for forgiveness.

They eat sweet foods, like challah bread, honey and fruit to symbolise their hopes for a sweet new year.

They go to the synagogue to worship and to hear the shofar being blown. The shofar is a ram's horn.

Hanukkah (Festival of Light)

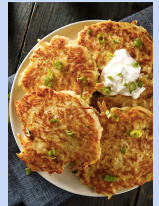

- It is celebrated in November or December
- Jewish people remember an event from their history when God performed a miracle and kept the lights burning in the temple for 8 days, even when there was no oil.

They light special candles called Menorahs and put them in their windows.

They give gifts and play special games like dreidel.

Fried foods like potato latkes are eaten.

Sukkot (Festival of Booths)

- It is celebrated for 7 days in the autumn
- It is a festival of thanksgiving
- Jewish people thank God for the harvest and remember the story of how Moses and the Jewish people lived in the desert for 40 years after escaping from Egypt.

During Sukkot they build and live in sukkahs (huts or booths) to remember when the Jewish people lived in the desert.

At the synagogue prayers are said and the Lulav or 'four kinds' is waved as part of thanking God.
